SAYS LINCOLN DRAMATIZED DEMOCRACY IN BURNS EPISODE

"If ever the ideals underlying the Declaration of Independence were dramatized it was on that November afternoon in Gettysburg when the President of the United States and the Gettysburg cobbler and constable (John Burns) walked arm in arm through the public streets."

That declaration was made by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, head of the department of history at Gettysburg college, in an address Friday evening before a dinner meeting of the men of the Presbyterian church on the topic, "Lincoln As Gettysburg. Saw Him."

Using excerpts from an address on that subject which he delivered some time ago at Reading as president of the Pennsylvania Historical association, Doctor Fortenbaugh said he sought to "recover the Gettysburg Lincoln" in the words of Prof. James G. Randall who has completed the first two of his four-volume work, "Lincoln, the President."

Lincoln And Gettysburg

Pointing out that in the career of Abraham Lincoln there is no more significant place name than Gettysburg, he said that Lincoln's name is linked more frequently with Gettysburg than with Springfield or Washington or any other place the Civil War president ever visited. "Even though Lincoln was here only once and that for only about 24 hours, the significance of that visit has mounted through the years and his Gettysburg Address has come to be his best-known utterance," the speaker said.

Enumerating significant events during the Lincoln visit here and displaying photostatic copies of five drafts of the dedicatory address, Doctor Fortenbaugh concluded his address with this statement:

"Lincoln, as Gettysburg saw him, does not belong exclusively to the past. This man of serious purpose, with friendliness and humility of spirit, who was devoted to the democratic principle, and who was the interpreter of our traditional political idealism, appears before us this night. He calls us, 'the living,' to be dedicated to the 'great task' which after four score and four years still remains before us."

Doctor Fortenbaugh was presented by Prof. Herbert G. Hamme, president of the men's organization. Members of the Women's Service Guild served a baked ham dinner.

FINED $100 FOR DODGING COPS

Accused of turning off the headlights of his automobile to avoid arrest, John B. Kimple, of near Caledonia, formerly of Arendtsville, pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to pay a $100 fine and the costs of prosecution after being severely reprimanded Friday in the Franklin county court at Chambersburg.

Kimple, a Merchant Marine home on leave, told Judge Winger that he led state police on a wild chase through a twisty, mountain road on the night of January 27 because he was carrying a revolver in his auto at the time and was afraid he would be arrested for violation of the firearms act. He said the revolver was one he used for target practice.

Pvt. John C. Wilson, of the Chambersburg state police substation, said Kimple failed to stop when he signaled him on the Pine Grove Furnace road, near the Caledonia intersection, on the night of his arrest. As the trooper took off in pursuit of Kimple, the motorist turned off the headlights of his vehicle and quickly eluded police on the golf course road, adjacent to the Caledonia camping area. Kimple, however, failed to negotiate a curve in the road and his car dropped into a shallow ravine, where Kimple was subsequently taken into custody by police.

Stewart Mehring Convicted On 5 Dog Charges

Stewart P. Mehring, Hanover, was "properly convicted of harboring unlicensed dogs," and is "guilty of the charges of cruelty to animals," Judge W. C. Sheely held, in an opinion handed down late this morning in the case last June when Mehring was charged and convicted before Justice of the Peace John H. Bashore of six dog law violations, some of them brought by agents of the SPCA.

Following the convictions, Mehring filed an appeal, and at a hearing on the appeal, counsel for the defendant asked time to file a brief. Judge Sheely delayed his decision, but handed it down today after declaring that "no brief has been filed and there is no reason for further delay."

The court's ruling found Mehring innocent on the charge of failing to secure a kennel license.

The defendant is directed to appear before the court on March 10 for sentence.

"Fluff's" Third Birthday Party Is 'Catty Affair'

There was a birthday party out West Middle street Friday evening that was certainly a catty affair — and no one will take offense at that description.

"Fluff" Rodgers was three years old Friday and had a quartet of her feline friends in for a neighborhood party.

There were "Nig" Pensinger, "Angeluss" Kendlehart, "Pedro" Utech and "Butch" Kunkel and each received a generous helping of the birthday cake of raw hamburger. To prove it was a birthday cake, "Fluff" had three candles glowing in fine style above the "bovine pastry."

There were birthday presents too — one guest brought a piece of liver for the three-year-old "Fluff" and another brought her a valentine with a cookie attached.

EAGLES FINISH PLANS FOR 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Union Cavalry Officer Who Disobeyed Orders Here Wins Medal For His Brave Action

A man who disobeyed orders during the Third Day's Battle at Gettysburg in 1863 was decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor thirty-four years later by a Secretary of War who had been an officer on the field and witnessed the violation of orders.

The strange case of Captain William E. Miller, of Carlisle, Company H, Third Pennsylvania Cavalry, who used his own judgment in a critical moment at East Cavalry Field and charged the enemy when he had been ordered to hold a position is probably unparalleled in American history for its happy sequel.

Fortune was smiling on the defenders that afternoon, Farnsworth, on the Union left, rode with futile gallantry to his death at Confederate hands while Pickett vainly assaulted the Union center. Meanwhile, the cavalry brigade of Wade Hampton and Fitzhugh Lee formed near the Rummel buildings, three miles east of Gettysburg for the attack that General Harbord described as "the most dramatic charge of cavalry ever made on American soil." Stuart, desperately anxious to atone for his late arrival at Gettysburg, wanted to break through the Union cavalry and fall on the communication lines in the rear, simultaneously with Pickett's charge.

Advance With Sabres

Eight regiments, formed in close column of squadrons, advanced with drawn sabres as though on review. Their pace was quickened to a trot, then a gallop as the charge was sounded and the horsemen rode southward toward the Union guns. With only the First Michigan Cavalry directly in their front, a breakthrough seemed inevitable. The First Michigan, vastly outnumbered, counter-charged to meet them head-on. Custer impetuously riding with the Colonel of the regiment. Four companies of the Third Pennsylvania under Captain Miller were posted in a small wood west of the Low Dutch Road, where the present Cavalry Monument (east of Gettysburg) now stands.

Captain Miller, suffering from cramps and barely able to ride, saw the Confederates sweeping by his front in a long column. Ordered to hold that position at all hazards, he spoke to Lieutenant William Rawle Brooke and told him "If you will back me up if I get into trouble, I'll make a charge with the squadron."

Lieutenant Brooke assured him that he would stand by him through thick and thin. The troopers sensed the situation and were so impatient to charge that they were off in an instant as the command was given. The squadron struck near the center of the Confederate column, on their left flank, in rear of the Color Guard and cut them in two. The rear portion fled and were chased nearly to the Rummel buildings where some of the most blood-curdling personal encounters of the entire war took place. The remainder of the Confederates were then driven back by the attacks launched on their front and right flank, and Miller, with the survivors of his sortie fought their way back to their original position. He regretted that they could not have mustered enough men to capture and haul off a battery that he had his eye on.

ANNUAL DINNER FOR GROWERS OF TOMATOES HELD

Parker A. Lerew, York Springs R. D., farmer, whose production of 25.77 tons per acre won him the honor of being first in tomato production in the state, was awarded two prizes Friday evening at the annual tomato growers' banquet held by the C. H. Musselman company at Biglerville.

He was given a radio for having had the largest production of any Musselman grower and was awarded a blanket for being second in quality among all Musselman producers. His fields produced 86 per cent U. S. No. 1's, 13 per cent No. 2's and one per cent culls.

Joseph S. Lehman, of York county, was awarded first honors for quality with a yield that produced 89.5 per cent No. 1's, and 10.5 per cent No. 2's.

Specialist Speaks

Second prize winner in yields was L. E. Lory, York Springs, whose production record was 23.08 tons per acre.

Approximately 250 tomato growers attended the dinner and meeting held in the Musselman cafeteria.

"Growers who are going to stay in the business are those who are going to grow quality fruit," J. O. Dutt, extension vegetable specialist from State College told the group. "There is already a small surplus in some canned products and in the future there will probably be greater surpluses. But the result of that will be merely the penalization of the grower who does not grow quality. The man who grows the highest quality tomatoes with high yields will still make money. This year many who have never sprayed before are going to adopt spray schedules. However, for the man who grows one acre or less, do not become discouraged simply because spraying has been added to the program. Take a look at some of the yields that were produced by some men with only one acre."

Gives Spray Results

Dr. L. O. Weaver, extension plant pathologist from State College, outlined tentative spray programs for the coming year and told of the manner in which the late blight overwinters in potatoes. In regards to sprays, he said, of the 86 ten-ton growers who were surveyed this past year only six got by without spraying. Among the six, grades averaged 65 per cent U. S. No. 1's. Of the 12-ton group three sprays on the average were used and they had 75 per cent No. 1's. Of those who used five sprays, most obtained 16 tons per acre and 79 per cent No. 1's and of those who sprayed six to eight times or more, most had twenty tons and 79 per cent No. 1's.

Last year's blight which wiped out many tomato growers in the eastern United States was caused by a fungus, "the same one that 100 years ago caused the potato famine in Ireland," but Weaver added, "it can be controlled by sprays and there is no reason why we should have another bad year."

"No one can predict with certainty whether it will be back to plague us again this coming year. Much moisture and cool nights are needed to bring out the late blight and if we have dry weather or warm weather there will be little blight. It overwintered in potatoes stored away and it has been seen in Florida this winter. As a result it can develop either from the potatoes or from tomato plants grown in the south which might have been infected there. Even though the spore may be brought here, whether it will spread will depend on the weather."

Can Control Blight

"However, we are preparing a spray schedule that will not only take care of the late blight but the early blight and other leaf spots and anthracnose, which each year cause much damage to the crops."

Weaver showed a number of pictures (Please Turn to Page Two)

ADAMS COUNTY TOPS GOAL IN SCOUT DRIVE

With approximately $18,000 already turned in from various local communities, the Adams county goal of $15,392 in the drive to raise $100,000 in York and Adams counties for a new Boy Scout camp has been more than reached.

Reports from the Round Top district, which includes a number of Adams county towns, disclosed Friday night that district is now over, its goal. It is the second of the eight districts in York and Adams county to report having reached the quota assigned in the Boy Scouts camp drive.

Reports from solicitors Friday night showed that $3,793 has been raised in the district, or 110 per cent of its $3,450 goal. The Black Walnut district, which includes Gettysburg, was the first district to top its assigned quota, going over the mark last week.

More Reports Coming

East Berlin has turned in 115 per cent of its goal and York Springs has reached 230 per cent of its quota according to the Round Top district reports.

With a quota of $300 the East Berlin section has already secured donations of $345 and York Springs, with a goal of $250 has reached $575 in its drive for funds. New Chester has also joined the 100 per cent communities with the committee there turning in $150, the exact amount sought. Hampton has raised 40 per cent of its $50 goal and Dillsburg is over the top with $1,725 or 105 per cent of its $1,650 goal.

Rossville-Wellsville is lagging with only 59 per cent of its quota of $650 raised. Thomasville with $597 has 149 per cent of its goal of $400. Additional sums are being secured in most of the communities by solicitors who have not as yet completed their work, according to reports at the Dillsburg meeting Friday. Wilmer McClure, chairman for the district, said that an additional $500 will probably be collected.

South Africans Splurging To Welcome Royal Family

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Capetown, Feb. 15 (AP)—South Africans are spending a fortune to extend an unprecedented welcome to the British Royal family, due here Monday aboard the battleship Vanguard for a visit of state.

There is plenty of money here and there are plenty of things to buy—even after heavy raids on stocks which have swept extraordinary prosperity into stores in recent weeks.

Capetowners are willing to pay almost any price for luxury clothes and jewelry. Women's formal gowns are almost unobtainable now. Materials are selling for as much as $80 a yard, but dressmakers say they are swamped with orders and are refusing to take more.

Men are having much the same trouble. Despite the king's avowed wish that the people curtail expenses, there has been a rush for formal costumes, including extremely scarce silk hats and morning coats. The Royal family is likely to find South Africa a sort of never-never land, particularly in the Capetown region, now jammed with vacationers, provincial notables and northern visitors all determined to witness the royal arrival.

At night brilliant lights flood Table mountain, government and private buildings and the parks and squares. The city resembles a vast and sparkling carnival. Scottish pipers rehearse on the green, as a cool sea breeze disperses the day's heat and strollers gather in beer gardens and cafes.

The food is rich and abundant, especially fruit, vegetables, pastries and ice cream. What shortages exist are principally seasonal or caused by an extensive drought.

SPORTSMEN PLAN TO GUARD STOCKED FISH

The Adams County Fish and Game Association decided at a meeting Friday evening upon a double course of action to protect for a reasonable length of time after stocking the thousands of game fish expected to be placed in Adams county streams this year.

First the group appealed to the sportsmanship of countians to refrain from taking freshly-stocked fish from streams when they can be "caught by anybody in large numbers thus defeating the purpose of the stocking program and stripping the streams of fish which rodsman who have paid their license fees have reason to expect to find there."

The second plan, which will be carried out promptly, is to arrange for the appointment of deputy fish wardens to patrol stocked streams immediately after the fish are liberated and until they have had an opportunity to acclimate themselves to their new life.

To Confer With Warden

Some of the members said that last year men followed the stocking trucks about the county and easily caught large numbers of the thousands of trout, bass and other species of game fish within a few hours after they were released.

William W. Ritter, new fish warden in charge of all of Adams county west of Route 15 will be asked to attend the March meeting of the Fish and Game group to arrange for the selection and appointment of deputies for stream patrol work. The 1947 stream stocking program will begin soon, the trout season to open April 15.

The association decided to ask Assemblyman Francis Worley for information on pending fish and game laws in the Legislature for possible action at the March session.

To Stock Pheasants

Game Protector Leo Bushman told the sportsmen approximately 1,000 rabbits have been released in the county since the small game season last fall. About 425 have been stocked in the Gettysburg area, 270 in the upper end and about 300 in the Littlestown section. He said state reports show bounties will be paid on about 50,000 to 60,000 foxes this winter in the state but no figures were given for Adams county.

The organization appeared to favor the purchase of full grown ringneck pheasants for stocking in the county late in the summer rather than to undertake the purchase and rearing of pheasant chicks available at the age of one day. Information on the cost and other details of the program are to be secured by the March meeting.

Buy Bird Charts

The sportsmen voted to buy eight sets of the color charts of birds of Pennsylvania from the State Game Commission. Sets will be presented to the Lincoln and Meade, the local parochial and the Biglerville schools. The surplus sets will be sold.

Membership in the county association is growing. Secretary J. Frank Dougherty reported as he urged members to help enroll interested persons in the organization.

President George R. Martin presided at the meeting which was held in the Martin shoe store on Baltimore street. The next meeting will be held March 14.

Gets Navy Dept. Unit Commendation

Garnet Leroy McFerren, 335 South Washington street, who was discharged from the navy on November 6, 1945, after serving 18 months, recently received a navy unit commendation for service aboard the USS Johnnie Hutchins.

The commendation reads: "The Secretary of the Navy has awarded the Navy Unit Commendation to the USS Johnnie Hutchins for outstanding heroism in action against enemy Japanese forces during an anti-submarine patrol in Allied convoy lanes between the Ryukyu and the Philippines August 9, 1945."

"By virtue of your service in the Johnnie Hutchins on August 9, 1945, you are hereby authorized to wear as part of your uniform a Navy Unit Commendation ribbon, one of which is transmitted herewith."

Auxiliary To Fish, Game Unit Meets

The February meeting of the Auxiliary of the Adams County Fish and Game association was held Friday evening at the fire engine house. Mrs. C. C. Trostle presided with 15 members in attendance.

Donations were voted to the Youth Extension program, Adams County Free Library, Boy Scouts and YWCA.

Following the business meeting a Valentine party was held with Mrs. Nicholas Redding and Mrs. Emma Mundorff as hostesses.

The next meeting will be held Friday evening, March 14.

GEN. MARSHALL DOESN'T MEAN WAR IMMINENT

(By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

When Secretary Marshall reported to the Senate Foreign Relations committee that the world "is in a very critical condition" he wasn't breaking what you would call a startling bit of news.

But although the secretary is a military man and therefore might be expected to think along military lines, there is no reason to believe he was talking about imminent war.

There is sufficient trouble without that, although it lurks constantly in the background for the future. There are cases when a patient's condition becomes critical merely because a cure for his ills is not found or because he fails to respond to treatment. That is the world's state today. Progress toward solution of its major problems has been small since the shooting stopped.

Continuing Crisis

There is, of course the one continuing crisis which is superimposed on everything else—the difficulty of obtaining the co-operation of Soviet Russia for peace. General Marshall is well aware that when he goes to Moscow next month he will be stepping into one of the most complicated situations with which a man was ever asked to deal.

The best informed people have no idea that Russia intends to precipitate a war in the near future. They believe her intentions are just the opposite. But what Marshall will be trying to do is to effect a peace for Europe which will go as far as possible toward eliminating the causes of European wars as well as to provide forceful prevention. He cannot avoid considering the possibility that any peace to which Russia agrees now may be adopted in the light of what it will mean to her in some future war if one becomes necessary to prevent the slow death of totalitarian Communism.

Success or failure at Moscow is not likely to mark the termination of this crisis. But what happens there, and in the other councils of these days, will have an important bearing on whether, when the crisis does break, the turn will be toward war or peace.

GEORGIA COURT RULING UPHELD

McDonough, Ga., Feb. 15 (AP)—Superior Judge Bond Almond held today that Herman Talmadge is governor of Georgia.

In a 7,000 word decision, Judge Almond cited a decision of Superior Judge Walter Hendrix, given last Wednesday, and said: "This court concurs."

The court reviewed at length decisions which Almond said had bearing on Georgia's governorship, and cited Georgia's constitutional section under which the Legislature elected Talmadge to the term of his late father, Eugene Talmadge.

Talmadge took a two-to-one lead over Lieut. Gov. M. E. Thompson in superior court decisions over the governorship.

Almond's decision was rendered on a suit brought by the Fulton National bank of Atlanta, which asked direction as to which claimant should draw on the executive fund of Georgia.

Counsel for Lieut. Gov. M. E. Thompson appealed to the Georgia Supreme Court today the decision of Superior Judge Walter Hendrix which held Talmadge to be the governor.

50 HURT BY DERAILMENT

Maxville, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—An estimated 50 persons received injuries, mostly minor, when the Seaboard air line's northbound "Orange Blossom Special," Miami to New York streamliner, was derailed on the main line about a mile south of here last night.

Six sleeping cars and a diner left the tracks. State highway patrolmen said about 30 persons were given first aid treatment at the scene of the wreck and 20 or more were taken to Jacksonville, 22 miles northwest of here, for medical attention.

Hospital attendants at Jacksonville said only two of the persons admitted were believed injured seriously. Several were given emergency treatment and released.

The cars did not overturn, but were tilted at an angle of about 45 degrees.

An investigation to determine the cause of the accident was started by Seaboard officials who said that uninjured passengers continued their journey northward.

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—David E. Lilienthal today was promised a chance to tell Senator Russell (D-Ga.) at hearings next week what he thinks about the Georgian's record on public vs. private power. The nominee's answer probably will determine whether Lilienthal gets Russell's vote in the close battle over Senate confirmation of the former TVA head as chairman of the new atomic control commission.

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—Australia asked today for a voice for small nations in dictating control policies in occupied Germany.

In a new note to the Big Four Foreign Ministers' deputies, the British dominion said Germany had not yet proved herself fit for democratic self-government and existing control machinery was unsuitable.

Harrisburg, Feb. 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania's milk consumers were assured today that the price of milk in the commonwealth will remain at its present level for 30 more days, and possibly longer. Too Busy To Rest

Trafalgar, Ind., Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Lester Smith was back home today after being away from her family overnight for the first time in 28 years and again was directing the smooth operation of her household, in which each of the 13 of her 16 living children who are at home has his assignment.

PARIS CHOKED FOR 4 HOURS; LABOR TROUBLE

Paris, Feb. 15 (AP)—Militant labor and a determined government confronted one another across this newsless city today in a conflict highlighted by yesterday's temporary token strike of government employees which paralyzed Paris for four hours.

Premier Paul Ramadier, who told the National Assembly yesterday that national sovereignty itself was at stake in workers' demands for a "vital minimum" wage of 7,500 francs a month (about $62), planned further conferences today in an effort to restore peace to the labor front. The strikers also were protesting a government proposal to freeze wages in its drive to cut prices.

The strike of pressroom and mechanical workers and news agency employees meanwhile kept the city blacked out from adequate news of developments. Even the National Radio's Telephone News Digest service restricted itself to brief descriptions of the strike, refusing to carry other news.

2 Million Demonstrate

Ramadier, calling upon the nation to show self-discipline, said French finances would not permit filling the workers' demands. The government has offered to increase salaries in lowest income brackets but unions of government employees yesterday demanded corresponding raises up the line of all salaries.

Pressmen and compositors, who already receive more than the "vital minimum," are demanding a flat 25 per cent increase.

All branches of the civil service, including police, bus drivers, subway workers, telephone and telegraph operators, postmen, and other ministry employees — nearly 2,000,000 persons — participated in yesterday's demonstration. Bus drivers and subway workers left their posts only for one hour from 4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

All others, however, stayed out four hours, from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m., snarling the capital's communications and public services.

News Briefs

Rawlins, Wyo., Feb. 17 (AP)—Despite charges of "brutality" aimed at Wyoming's bow-and-arrow buffalo killing, the archers who took part declared today such a hunt could be "very attractive" as an annual event. Jim Scoggin of San Bernardino, Calif., told the archers the animals struck by arrows during yesterday's hunt would have died from hemorrhage if riflemen had not stepped in to finish them. "The archers ought to be left free to finish the job," declared Ed Little of Rawlins, "whether it takes two arrows or 22. The buffaloes would all have died if given a chance."

Philadelphia, Feb. 15 (AP)—Hahnemann hospital, one of Philadelphia's largest hospitals, is withdrawing from the Associated Hospital Service of Philadelphia (Blue Cross) effective March 1, according to an announcement by Dr. Frederick J. von Rapp, executive vice president and administrator of the hospital. Dr. Von Rapp said the decision was prompted by the fact that the hospital has been losing money on patients it has admitted under the Blue Cross plan.

Philadelphia, Feb. 15 (AP)—A high salt content in the Delaware river at Chester, Pa., has forced many of that city's industrial plants to haul water from other cities, Frank I. Dodd, manager of the Chester authority told the Public Utility commission.

The authority seeks approval of a plan to obtain a new water supply by purchasing facilities of the Octoraro Water company south of McCray, Chester county. Dodd estimated the cost at $235,000.

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—The cost of living index declined slightly between mid-December and mid-January, the Bureau of Labor statistics said today.

Red Influence To Be Felt In History

New York, Feb. 15 (AP)—Russian influence will be felt in whatever course history takes in the future, says Dr. William W. Edell, president of Dickinson college at Carlisle, Pa. "Whatever the course of history within the next decade, it is apparent that no world decisions will be made without taking into consideration the power and influence of Soviet Russia," said Dr. Edell in a speech last night at the annual dinner of the Dickinson club of New York, adding:

"Democracy and the ideologists of Communism must come either to co-operation or to combat, for the day is past when any nation can isolate itself behind the borders of its geography, its power or its political philosophy."

Commenting on fears that Communism may be taught, Dr. Edell said:

"It is our faith that democracy, with its essential principles of human freedom has nothing to fear from an objective inquiry into the meanings and methods of the collective state."

tures showing various types of spraying equipment that might be used in tomato fields. Spraying, he told the group, has proved more satisfactory than dusting in control because the spray gives better coverage in fighting late blight. He warned against using Bordeaux on young plants or under dry conditions.

Fremont Kuntz, field man for the Musselman company, read the list of ten-ton or better growers who sold to the Musselman company last year. The group included Bruce Beitman, Gardners R. D.; John C. Cluck, Biglerville R. D.; Emory Deardorff, Aspers R. 1; Lloyd Garretson, Biglerville R. D.; George Golden, Gardners R. D.; F. E. Griest, Biglerville R. D.; Luther Lady, Arendtsville R. D.; Mr. Lerew; Mr. Lory; Dorsey Martz, Biglerville R. D.; Maurice Pitzer, Aspers R. D.; Paul Pitzer, Biglerville R. D.; Prickett Estate, Biglerville R. D.; Dwight Rinehart, Gettysburg R. 3; H. W. Sowers, York Springs R. D.; Harry Spangler, York Springs R. D.; Charles Fleming, Dillsburg R. 1; Harry Masemer, Jr., Mr. Lehman and Joseph Groft, York county.

Cyrus Bucher acted as master of ceremonies and Luther Lady, Arendtsville, gave the blessing.

Mrs. Dan Knittle presented a number of readings and County Agent M. T. Hartman showed a motion picture on rat control.

Getting Spray Equipment

Field Agent Kuntz told the group that tomato plants will be available to those farmers who promise to sell the tomatoes grown to the Musselman company at $4.50 per thousand. Since the plants cost $6.58 per thousand to grow and since those who grow for Musselman should get first choice, the price to anyone who is not going to sell to Musselman company will be $15 per thousand, Kuntz said.

He recommended row spacing of 3 1/2 to 4 feet and planting in the row 4 feet to five feet in announcing that modern two row tractor mounted transplanters are available from the company for planting. Kenneth Alwine announced that a number of sprayers are being secured and "we expect to have two trailer-type eight-row boom sprayers and two tractor-mounted eight-row boom-type sprayers in addition to other equipment. So there will be equipment for all to adopt spray programs."

As to prices, Bucher told the growers that "undoubtedly there will be a carry-over of tomato juice and tomato products as there will be in many other fruit and vegetable lines. We do not look for drastic reductions or depressing prices, but rather stabilizing price adjustments which may result in somewhat lower prices for 1947, but we plan to pay the top price possible, just as we always have."

MAN IS JAILED; STRANGE TALES

A man who said his name was Edell Grace and his home in York, was given 30 days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder today, while borough and state police continued a check of his story.

Grace approached Borough Police Officer Albert L. Wolford shortly after 11 o'clock Friday night, said he was penniless, and wanted a place to stay. Wolford took him to police headquarters, where Grace first said his name was John Anderson, Middletown, Pa.

He had a photostatic copy of an army discharge issued to Anderson. Grace told many conflicting stories on questioning Friday night and again today, among them that he had been a member of a paratrooper outfit, and had been captured by the Germans in Italy after being injured in the head and chest when a tank ran over a trench in which he was crouched.

Grace also said he had lapses of memory. Investigation of how he got the discharge issued to Anderson, and other phases of his conflicting stories was being continued.

Two other prisoners were captured. One, Harold Flowers, 22, of Wilkes-Barre, was seized almost immediately after the escape. The other, Nicholas Cromley, 22, was captured several hours later by state police. They said he was taken into custody at the home of an aunt in Catawissa, Pa.

Fusari Beats Larkin In 9th On Decision

New York, Feb. 15 (AP)—Charley Fusari didn't get up to help "Pop" on the milkroute over in Jersey this morning because Charley had done his delivering in Madison Square Garden last night.

The Sicilian-born swatter from Irvington, N. J., had delivered so well that today he could boast 48 straight victories. And his nine-round job of flattening Tippy Larkin, the junior welterweight champion, moved him far up front and center among challengers for Sugar Ray Robinson's welterweight crown.

Fusari, floored his fellow-Jerseyan five times before Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the swatting at 2:49 of the ninth. Fusari, at 146, had a four-pound advantage.

ARENDTSVILLE CAPTURES PAIR

Arendtsville swept both ends of a county league basketball double-header with New Oxford high Friday evening at Arendtsville.

Coach Kane's boys fought unexpected opposition from New Oxford throughout the first three periods when the score was close but the Apple Pickers poured 14 points through in the last period to win handily 50-35. Singley led the victors with 21 tallies.

The Arendtsville girls kept their undefeated streak intact in league play by winning their eighth straight in the opening game of the evening 42-18. Showing a well balanced attack, the Arendtsville outfit led throughout.

Next Wednesday evening North York high will play at Arendtsville in a benefit for Dick Bucher, injured Biglerville high football player.

SEEK DRASTIC CHANGES IN PA. FISHING LAWS

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Feb. 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania's fish code, as drawn up in 1925, would be drastically changed under provision of a resolution up for consideration today by the Federated Sportsman's Clubs of Pennsylvania, here for their annual convention.

Oscar A. Becker, of Reading Federation president, said the resolution had been drawn up by Dale Furst, Jr., of Williamsport, federation vice president, at the request of the more than 600 sportsmen's clubs throughout the state.

Under the present code the appointment of a state fish commissioner rests solely with the governor, with the commissioner supervising the personnel of the commission.

The principal change in the code would provide for the appointment by the Governor of fish commissioners in each of the state's eight districts, with these men in turn being responsible for the appointment of an executive director to operate the commission's business.

Under another resolution the fish commission would be called upon to take steps to protect the bass fishing in the upper reaches of the Susquehanna river.

J. P. Rutledge, of Pittsburgh, in charge of a panel discussion on the subject yesterday said the resolution, only one adopted at the panel, called on the commission "to make a research of the Susquehanna river from the Luzerne county boundary line to the state border above the Susquehanna." Purpose of the research, explained Rutledge, was to determine a method of decreasing the carp in the river which, he said, "have done considerable damage to bass in the waters of the upper Susquehanna."

The federation's board of directors are on record as opposing an increase in the state's hunting license fees, and have approved a 50 cent increase for fishing license fees, providing 25 cents of the increase is used to defray cost of purchasing, maintaining, and developing additional fish land.

ARE WE ALL MIGRATORY?

All my life, ever since I learned of the migration of birds, I have wondered about migration. How strange and yet how wonderful that birds have been given the urge to select their homes throughout the many changes of climate and seasons. Perhaps it is what keeps life vibrant and vital. We, as human beings, like to keep moving, changing our abodes, and we are usually inspired and renewed by it, both in mind and body.

In an interesting study of W. H. Hudson, by Robert Hamilton, I came across a statement that the Dartford warbler, an English bird, did not migrate, and so was gradually dying out. He could not find the answer. Certain it is that migratory birds keep multiplying, and seem to know what they are about, when they do migrate.

Said Hamilton: "Migration, in some form or other, seems natural to all living creatures, and can be regarded as a manifestation of universal movement of life." And so it is that we human beings also migrate, travel about, change our abodes, and so, in a way, imitate these winged creatures who stay with us for a time and then seek new homes and new scenes.

The sparrow, the blue jay, and the starling are a few of our native birds of the north who seem to have hardihood which enables them to brave the storms and cold of winter. We have to admire them, though we may not love them as we do so many of our beautiful and expert songsters.

All life, however, seems to call for movement and action, and although we may represent the highest form of intelligent creation, still we remain as one with all Nature—a part of God's stream of life. We like new scenes, new contacts, new experiences.

When in Hawaii I learned of a bird there that migrates to far-away Alaska, nests in that cold climate, and then flies the thousands of miles back to Hawaii, its young knowing just how to perform the task—truly miraculous! And nations are migratory—they keep reaching out, wanting more land, more people to dominate and control. Is it, after all, just a law of life and the survival of the fittest, as Darwin suggested?

BRIDGE

Whenever bridge I play I find
(And loss is ours to take)
My partner often is inclined
To blame the bids I make.

Too slow am I the fault to see
In anything he did.
He beats me to it, telling me:
"You didn't have a bid!"

If only seven tricks are made,
When he had gone for nine,
'Tis not the hand was poorly played,
But some mistake of mine.

They've told me, and I understand,
Bridge is a partner game.
There must be one to play the hand
And one to take the blame.

Oil Does Four Things

It seems to me that more motorists would change oil more often if they had a better appreciation of just what oil does for an engine besides lubricating its bearings and pistons. Oil is also a cleansing agent. When flushing oils were used more extensively this cleansing feature was more generally understood. Then there is the matter of compression. Unless oil is of the right grade it doesn't do so well at sealing the rings and the engine not only loses power but burns oil more freely. Oil is also a cooling agent. That is one reason why we must always be careful to keep the quantity up, quite aside from the quality. A well oiled engine normally runs cooler.

This Way To Saving

Many are the ways we use in trying to save gasoline, not because the stuff is expensive but because we like to feel that our gas mileage is an index of desirable efficiency. One method often overlooked, however, is sparing the starter. Delayed starts and prolonged use of the starting motor are wasteful for the reason that the gas vapor which the pistons are then sucking into the cylinders performs no work at all. This vapor doesn't even help warm up the engine. Perhaps there is something wrong with our method of starting: failure to open the throttle wider, leaving the clutch pedal up in cold weather, or too much pumping on the accelerator pedal. Or the trouble may go deeper, involving inefficiency of the automatic choke control, a weak battery or need for attention to the breaker points or spark plugs. Gas mileage is always aided by prompt starts, not to mention prompt re-starts when the engine is hot.

Did You Know That

There are eight distinct parts to a conventional spark plug, not counting the gasket which is very important to its efficiency?

You can now have the underparts of your car painted with special rust and noise preventive compound? The cost runs between $25 and $35.

The main reason for lubricating the transmission is to safeguard the bearings? That explains why lube must always be light enough to flow with reasonable freedom.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"Whether to have the springs of your car lubricated should not be a question of what anyone thinks about it, but of what the manufacturer of your car recommends. Two makes of cars for late models have springs which should not be lubricated. Others which also have spring covers for the rear of the car should be lubricated, but in special ways. This is true even if the covers have no lube fittings. Holes can be drilled into the covers to provide a means of getting the lube in. When such work is done weight should be lifted off the springs by jacking the car. That is why this job is best done at a service station. Graphite in with the lube is usually effective.

"Care must be taken where springs are equipped with rubber shackles. These can be lubricated with brake fluid which won't injure the rubber. Waxed liners for leaf springs should, of course, not be lubricated."

More Than Gadgets

While there has been a lot of talk about motorists having to take so many accessories when buying a new car the truth is that never before has there been such an excellent opportunity to impress upon the public the desirability of many of these fittings. One buyer complained bitterly because he had to take a fire extinguisher along with a special daytime visor and a windshield cleaning system. Shortly after someone started a cigarette fire in the upholstery, and that extinguisher proved to be worth its weight in sugar. At the moment there are relatively few devices which can be classed as mere gadgets. They are designed largely to effect savings, or to provide safeguards. There should be no quarrel with either objective.

Keep These In Mind

Among the many parts of the car likely to be overlooked in a routine greasing is the arm of the carburetor acceleration pump. This little part gets a real workout because it is in action so much of the time. It will appreciate a drop or two of light oil upon occasion.

Low pressure in the oiling system may be due to an internal leak. Within the crankcase the oil may be escaping before it reaches the pressure regulator. While this oil is not lost since it goes right back into circulation again its detouring will affect the reading on the pressure gauge.

Watch For Substitutes

Whenever a reader says that even though he installed a new fuel pump he still has trouble with the engine I am usually suspicious of the quality of the new part, especially if the work was done along the road. There have been a lot of makeshift units around. One carries a push rod made of two parts, spot welded to look like the genuine which is formed of four separate pieces. The substitute simply doesn't stand up. It hasn't the accuracy to give proper pump action.

Alcohol In The Line

Speaking of the fuel pump reminds me to say that one of the latest in this line is equipped with a special diaphragm that is impervious to alcohol which may be put into the gasoline to check freeing of water impurities. This would seem to suggest that some of the current diaphragms may be weakened by alcohol. It might be well to make sure about this before putting alcohol into the gas tank.

Incidentally, I saw a mechanic thaw out a frozen gas line by using a heating wire which he connected to the starter terminal and to the metal line. It did the job effectively, but I think it is one of those things that should be done in a service station and only by someone who knows what he is doing. It is less hazardous than some of the plans used by motorists faced with frozen lines, but still not anything for the uninitiated.

No Trick To Try

Many years ago I learned that it is dangerous to suggest tricks to those who may not know enough about cars to avoid certain pitfalls. This is especially true of driving suggestions and hints on overcoming situations that usually call for emergency road service. I am reminded of this by a current plan of cranking the engine by jacking a rear wheel, and turning it with the tire lug wrench. With the car in gear and the ignition on the engine can be started this way even if the battery is too weak to turn the starter. It all sounds very inviting, but the joker is how to get off the wrench before it twirls around and breaks your arm.

EXPECT RUSSIA TO PROPOSE BAN ON BOMB MAKING

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.

Lake Success, N. Y., Feb. 15 (P)—Russia was expected today to propose formally that the United Nations Security Council ban immediately any further production of atom bombs.

There was a possibility that Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko would make his formal motion when the council reconvenes Tuesday to debate the whole atomic question.

In an address to the council yesterday, Gromyko demanded that the United Nations ban production of the atom bomb as the first step toward an international atomic control system, but made no move upon which the council would be required to act.

Sharp Criticism

The Russian diplomat sharply criticized the United States for continued manufacture of mass-destruction weapons.

Categorically rejecting the American control plan, Gromyko announced he would make public the text of Soviet proposals, additions and amendments at the next council session.

These were the principal points Gromyko made:

1. That a convention outlawing the atom bomb must be the first step in any program.

2. That control machinery must operate under the Security Council where the power of veto holds.

3. That the American plan violates the U. N. charter and contradicts the assembly resolutions on arms reduction.

4. That despite "serious defects" of the report, Russia would accept it for a working paper and would offer "proposals, additions and amendments" in due course.

In another field of activity, the United Nations was expected to get the knotty Palestine problem next week as Britain finally decided to turn her holy land woes over for international settlement.

Most observers believed that Britain would call for a special session of the U. N. general assembly to handle the case rather than submit it to the Security Council where the veto could be used.

The Mademoiselle club has been active this winter in aiding the fight against infantile paralysis. One of the club's latest projects has been their interest in a little girl who has been maimed by this disease and who spends most of her time in knitting. The club has agreed to provide her with all the yarn she can use and also to supply any other needed materials to encourage her in this occupation. The child's name and address have not been given to the public.

The Wesleyan Service Guild, composed of young women of the Methodist church, observed Valentine's Day by conducting a covered dish supper Friday evening for members and invited guests.

6,000 MINERS IDLE IN STRIKE BY SITDOWNERS

Lansford, Pa., Feb. 15 (P)—Six thousand anthracite miners stayed away from their jobs in eastern Pennsylvania today as 13 fellow miners went into their third day of a "sitdown strike."

The 13 miners, protesting against docking of pay for failure to work a full seven-hour day, remained 800 feet underground on the fifth level of the Lehigh Navigation Coal company's Lansford colliery.

The situation remained unchanged after 60 hours, despite the pleas of United Mine Workers (AFL) officials.

"It's useless for you to stay here any longer," said District UMW President Mart F. Brennan when he visited the men. "Come on up so we can see if we can settle this thing."

"Fight To Finish"
"It's going to be a fight to the finish," said a spokesman for the Panther Valley UMW committee.

The 13 miners are classed as "consideration miners." They were engaged in opening new work in the mine, receiving pay based on production until the going got too hard and then drawing $10.78 for a seven-hour day.

The "sitdowners" claim inability to work a full day because heat, smoke and dust endanger their health. The company said costs must be lowered by more production and it expected a full day's work by men paid for such.

Meanwhile, the 13 underground strikers were supplied with food and other essentials. Huge buckets of water were sent them for bathing.

DIDRIKSON WINS
Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 15 (P)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias, golfdom's first lady, squeezed out a one-up victory over Jean Hopkins of Lakewood, Ohio, yesterday to capture the Palm Beach women's golf tournament.

YOUTH ADMITS HE SLEW MAN IN 'THRILL' HOLDUP

Pittsburgh, Feb. 15 (P)—George F. P. Langfitt, first assistant district attorney for Allegheny county, said James S. Forse, Jr., young war veteran, admitted last night he was trying a "thrill" holdup when 69-year-old Alfred Kemper was shot to death the night of January 23 in his east end store.

Langfitt said Forse made the statement only a few minutes before he was to have undergone a lie detector test, to which he had agreed voluntarily to submit.

Young Forse continued to insist, however, that the shooting was accidental.

"I had no intention of harming him," he said.

Here is Forse's story as reported by Langfitt:

Second Shot Fatal

The young man was carrying a foreign-made pistol, loaded, when he suddenly decided he wanted some excitement. He went to the Kemper store, where he often shopped, pulled out his pistol and said,

"This is a stickup."

Instead of meekly submitting, as Forse had expected, Kemper leaped forward and seized the robber by the wrists. Forse fired one shot into the floor, "to frighten him," and backed toward the door, trying to break loose.

Kemper hung on and, near the door, the pistol went off again. Kemper released his hold and Forse fled. He did not know Kemper was dead until he heard his parents discussing the case next morning.

Scouts Dine

The Boy Scouts of Emmitsburg attended a banquet in Frederick on Thursday, given by the Scouts of Frederick county, in the Calvary Methodist auditorium. A dinner was served after which the boys received their different advancements. Scouts from Emmitsburg receiving 1st class awards were: George Greco, Donald Rodgers and William Sterbinsky; 2nd class, Robert Jordan and Advit Adams.

About 30 scouts were present from Troop 284 of Emmitsburg, together with their leaders, Anthony Polcari and Raymond Wood, who are both Eagle Scouts and students of Mt. St. Mary's college.

The Emmitsburg scouts sang the troop song, after which a movie was shown on "The Progress and Activities of a Scout."

near the Rummel barn. His wound was of little concern to him, "a small hole through my arm, but it will be healed up in a few days."

Honored By McKinley

Captain Miller's part in the Cavalry fight was not even mentioned in the Official Records, but his loyal comrades-in-arms were more thoughtful than some of his superiors. In July, 1897 the Congressional Medal of Honor was bestowed on him by direction of President McKinley and conferred by Secretary of War Russell A. Alger who, as Colonel of the Fifth Michigan Cavalry, was present at the battle. Miller was too modest to do himself justice in his own very able historical writings. In company with four other members of the Third Pennsylvania Cavalry Association, he helped compile the regimental history, and he also wrote the very fine account of the Cavalry Battle at Gettysburg in "Battle and Leaders of the Civil War."

The Pennsylvania Commandery of the Loyal Legion, through the courtesy of George A. Landell, President of the War Library and Museum in Philadelphia, has furnished much additional information on Captain Miller. He was born at West Hill, Pennsylvania in 1836. Following the war he resided in Carlisle and engaged in the hardware business. At various times he served as Burgess of Carlisle, President of the Board of Health, Chairman of the County Democratic Committee, member of the school board, and President of the Hamilton Library Association.

He was original commander of Post 201, Grand Army of the Republic, and an original companion of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. Pennsylvania Commandery. When he died in 1919 he was buried in Gettysburg National Cemetery at Gettysburg.

BRITISH PLAN ON PALESTINE YET UNCERTAIN

London, Feb. 15 (P)—Britain's plan for bringing the Palestine question before the United Nations is expected to be made known next week, informed observers said today.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones are to report in the House of Commons then on their latest deadlocked negotiations with Holy Land Arabs and Jews, last of a series begun in September.

Bevin's announcement on the issue yesterday said only that "since no proposals put forward by his majesty's government had proved acceptable as a basis for further discussion, his majesty's government had decided to refer the whole problem to the United Nations."

Several Possible Courses

Under the U. N. charter, Britain might lay the problem before the Security Council on the grounds of Palestine's being a strategic area or a threat to peace; might ask the secretary general to call a special general assembly session with the argument that the situation was likely to impair friendly relations among nations, or might submit a trust agreement on Palestine to the assembly, now not scheduled to meet till September. A foreign office spokesman hinted at the second course.

Dr. Jamal Hussein, leader of the Palestine Arab delegation here, said

REFUGEE'S DILEMMA — Alison Bryant, 3, hardly knows which toys to take with her as she, her brother, Peter, 10, and their mother prepare to leave Jerusalem under British Army orders evacuating women and children from the Holy Land. Her father, a utilities official, has lived in Palestine for 12 years and has no home in England.

Palestine Arabs "will not consider any U. N. decision as arbitrary—we will only be bound by our rights and continue fighting until we get them."

Moshe Shertok, Jewish agency political chief and recent consultant with the British, said the Jews had no objections to the U. N.'s settling the issue but would insist that Britain lift its restriction on Jewish immigration into Palestine while the question was being handled in the U. N.

What Others Say:

LABORER—There are no layoffs when things are busy. A rush means overtime for me. So when advertising sells goods for my firm, I get more in my pay envelope.

EXPRESSMAN—My job depends on goods being shipped. And the main reason goods are shipped is because they are sold. So by selling goods, advertising helps me be sure of steady work.

HOUSEWIFE—It's a perfect circle. When advertising makes us women go to the store to buy, we stimulate business. And it's when business is good that our husbands are secure in their jobs. So let's be grateful for advertising.

SAILOR—A ship's business is to transport goods. Always there has to be a buyer—or we tie up. So advertising to sell goods is important in giving sailors steady work and a chance to get ahead.

Truck Hits Baby Carriage; Tot Not Injured; Mother Is

Baltimore, Feb. 15 (AP)—A careening truck crashed headlong into a baby carriage pushed by 18-year-old Mrs. Minnie Earp yesterday, throwing her six-week-old daughter, Sandra Jean, clear, unhurt, but the young mother's leg was injured so badly doctors are considering amputation.

Patrolman Joseph Naylor said the truck veered to avoid a dog in the road, struck an electric pole and glanced off, hitting the mother and child.

The baby was picked up under the truck.

EARTH TO THE MOON

By Jules Verne

AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 14

On the completion of the Columbiad the public interest centered in the projectile itself, the vehicle which was destined to carry the three hardy adventurers into space.

The news plans had been sent to Broadwell and Co. with the request for their speedy execution. The projectile was consequently cast on the 2d of November, and immediately forwarded by the Eastern Railway to Stones Hill, which it reached without accident on the 10th of that month, where Michel Ardan, Barbicane, and Nichol were waiting impatiently for it.

The projectile had now to be filled to the depth of three feet with a bed of water intended to support a water-tight wooden disc, which worked easily within the walls of the projectile. It was upon this kind of raft that the travelers were to take their place. This body of water was divided by horizontal partitions, which the shock of the departure would have to break in succession. Then each sheet of the water, running off into escape tubes toward the top of the projectile, constituted a kind of spring; and the wooden disc, supplied with extremely powerful plugs, could not strike the lowest plate except after breaking successively the different partitions. Undoubtedly the travelers would still have to encounter a violent recoil after the complete escapement of the water; but the first shock would be almost entirely destroyed by this powerful spring. The upper part of the walls were lined with a thick padding of leather, fastened upon springs of the best steel, behind which the escape tubes were completely concealed; thus all imaginable precautions had been taken for averting the first shock; and if they did get crushed, they must as Michel Ardan said, be made of very bad materials.

The new plans had been sent to tower by a narrow aperture contrived in the wall of the cone. This was hermetically closed by a plate of aluminum, fastened internally by powerful screw-pressure. The travelers could therefore quit their prison at pleasure, as soon as they should reach the moon.

Light and view were given by means of four thick lenticular glass scuttles, two pierced in the circular wall itself, the third in the bottom, the fourth in the top. These scuttles then were protected against the shock of departure by plates let into solid grooves, which could easily be opened outward by unscrewing them from the inside.

There now remained only the question of air; for allowing for the consumption of air by Barbicane, his two companions, and two dogs which he purposed taking with him, it was necessary to renew the air of the projectile.

There were two things to be done then—first, to replace the absorbed oxygen; secondly, to destroy the expired carbonic acid; both easy enough to do by means of chlorate of potassium and caustic potash.

On the 20th of October in the preceding year, after the close of the subscription, the president of the Gun club had credited the Observatory of Cambridge with the necessary sums for the construction of a gigantic optical instrument. This instrument was designed for the purpose of rendering visible on the surface of the moon any object exceeding nine feet in diameter.

After considerable discussion as to the best form and principle of the proposed instrument the work was finally commenced. According to the calculations of the Observatory of Cambridge, the tube of the new reflector would require to be 280 feet in length, and the object-glass sixteen feet in diameter. Colossal as these dimensions may appear, they were diminutive in comparison with the 10,000 foot telescope proposed by the astronomer Hooke only a few years ago.

All the necessary apparatus was sent on to the summit of Long's Peak, a range 10,700 feet in height in the territory of Missouri.

In less than a year after the commencement of the works, toward the close of September, the gigantic reflector rose into the air to a height of 280 feet. It was raised by means of an enormous iron crane; an ingenious mechanism allowed it to be easily worked toward all the points of the heavens, and to follow the stars from the one horizon to the other during their journey through the heavens.

It had cost $400,000. The first time it was directed toward the moon the observers evinced both curiosity and anxiety. What were they about to discover in the field of this telescope which magnified objects 48,000 times? Would they perceive peoples, herds of lunar animals, towns, lakes, seas? No! There was nothing which science had not already discovered! And on all the points of its disc the volcanic nature of the moon became determinable with the utmost precision.

But the telescope of the Rocky Mountains, before doing its duty to the Gun Club, rendered immense services to astronomy. Thanks to its penetrative power, the depths of the heavens were sounded to the utmost extent; the apparent diameter of a great number of stars was accurately measured; and Mr. Clark, of the Cambridge staff, resolved the Crab nebula in Taurus, which the reflector of Lord Rosse had never been able to decompose.

$200 Damage From McSherrystown Fire

Damage estimated at $200 was done by fire at the Central Service station, 334 Main street, McSherrystown, Charles Hagerman, proprietor, shortly before noon Thursday.

The fire occurred in the repair shop in rear of the service station and is said to have been caused by sparks from a welding operation falling upon the roof of an automobile.

When the flareup occurred, workmen attempted to extinguish the flames with a hand extinguisher while a call was put in for the McSherrystown fire company. The blaze was under control when the firemen arrived.

Two automobiles were damaged. The top and side of a car belonging to Leo J. Krichen, Main street, McSherrystown, was burned, and an automobile belonging to Joseph Hagerman, McSherrystown, was blistered. Damage to the Krichen car was estimated at $75 and to the Hagerman car at about $40. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

'INCH' PIPELINES SOLD TO TEXAS FIRM FOR GAS

Harrisburg, Feb. 15 (AP)—Governor Duff's view that Pennsylvania is powerless to halt the movement of any commodity in Interstate Commerce remained unchanged today with the sale of the Big and Little Inch pipelines by the War Assets administration for possible transmission of natural gas.

The lines, subject of much controversy in the Keystone state in recent months, were sold for $143,127,000 to the Texas Eastern Transmission corporation of Houston, Texas, yesterday.

They were built during World War II to transport petroleum and its products from Texas to the Atlantic seaboard with the Commonwealth granting wartime rights-of-way through state-owned lands for that purpose.

Coal, railroad and labor groups have opposed the use of the lines for the transmission of natural gas and protested informally several months ago to the state water and power resources board against any change in existing agreements.

State officials have withheld formal comment on this phase of the question, on the grounds it is a legal one, although one source explained informally the only rights of property owners were for damages. He added such owners are unable to halt the use of the lines, once constructed, but could claim additional remuneration if a new type of commodity is transported.

On the question of new areas tapping the lines, Chairman John Siggins, Jr., of the Public Utility commission, said "it is my understanding" that any such move requires approval of the commission as all extensions of public utility service.

He said the commission was adhering, however, to the governor's policy that no area having natural gas in the past should be restricted in any way in the source from which its supply is obtained.

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn predicted today that additional conduits may be built alongside the Big inch and Little inch pipelines sold yesterday for the movement of natural gas to the eastern seaboard.

The lines went to the highest among eleven bidders, the newly formed Texas Eastern Transmission corporation, of Houston, Texas, for $143,127,000 in cash—or about 98 per cent of the original wartime cost to the government.

"The high prices offered were the result of long-range vision," Littlejohn told a reporter, "I think that more pipelines—either for gas or oil—may be laid along that right of way."

NURSES TAKE ISSUE ON HOURS

Harrisburg, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Pennsylvania State Nurse association took issue today with a Philadelphia physician's comment that the present nursing shortage can be attributed in part to the fact nurses are now working only eight hours instead of the previous 12-hour shift.

Mrs. Katherine E. F. Miller, general secretary of the state association, said in a statement today's is 75 feet wide where the lines run jointly and 50 feet wide where the 1,300-mile tubes follow separate courses.

Littlejohn voiced the hope the corporation will be ready to take over on May 1, the expiration date of a temporary lease granted during the coal strike to the Tennessee Gas and Transmission company.

Texas Eastern has nine months in which to pay up and take possession, but two other steps remain first:

(1) A finding by the Justice Department that the sale does not infringe anti-trust laws, and (2), issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity by the Federal Power Commission.

Littlejohn said he had assurance that the Justice Department could rule within a week.

Senator Myers (D-Pa.) declared there was nothing final at all about the sale and predicted the Power Commission will "never permit the transmission of natural gas to the eastern seaboard." Also opposing the transaction is Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) who has stated that use of the lines for natural gas would damage Pennsylvania's coal industry "irreparably."

"The Westerner" has Gary Cooper in the title role, and the supporting cast features such brilliant players as Walter Brennan, Doris Davenport, Fred Stone, Lillian Bond and Forrest Tucker.

Cooper plays the type of he-man outdoor role which has made him one of the screen's top-notch actors, portraying quick-on-the-trigger Cole Hardin, who drifts into the wild and woolly town of Vinegaroon in the roaring days of the '80s when there raged a bitter and long protracted battle between the cattlemen and the homesteaders. Cooper comes to grips with Walter Brennan, portraying Judge Benn, the vicious "Law West of the Pecos."

WEDNESDAY
Pat O'Brien and Claire Trevor head the cast of "Crack-Up" which will be the film attraction at the Majestic theatre.

Urge New Vote In Beer Dispute

Pittsburgh, Feb. 15 (AP)—CIO officials, backed by an almost 7-to-1 vote of Brewery Bottling House Workers in favor of their union, today looked with jaundiced eye on a proposal by AFL leaders that a new NLRB election be held in a further attempt to settle the four-month-old jurisdictional dispute.

The AFL-Teamsters asked that a vote be held only among the employees of three Pittsburgh breweries. Twelve west Pennsylvania breweries were included in the NLRB balloting concluded Thursday.

The Teamsters' objection to the previous vote was that it was held on a vertical or industry-wide basis, rather than at the craft level favored by the AFL.

Anthony J. Federoff, regional director of the CIO, indicated his union would oppose any such proposal.

Pleads Guilty As Murder Accessory

Erie, Pa., Feb. 15 (AP)—Michael Dominick, 28, of Erie who pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of accessory after the fact in the March 4 slaying of 34-year-old ex-sailor Robert Fisher, will be sentenced early next week. He entered the plea before Alderman John S. Curtis who set bail at $5,000.

Dominick was acquitted on Thursday of a first degree murder charge in the Fisher slaying.

Two other persons, tried last May, are under sentence in the case—Michael Dubna, 28, who faces death in the electric chair, and his attractive sister, Mrs. Millie Thomas, 27, who was sentenced to life in prison.

Butler, Pa., Feb. 15 (AP)—The Butler county salary board yesterday passed out raises totaling $5,000 a year to 56 county workers. Increases ranged from $5 to $10 a month, retroactive to February 1.

BRITAIN SLOWLY WINNING FIGHT ON FUEL SUPPLY

London, Feb. 15 (AP)—Britain appeared today to be slowly winning her critical peacetime "battle of the power stations."

A government spokesman said cautiously, "there are signs that we have turned the corner," as trains and ships loaded with coal broke an icy blockade to ease the fuel famine that has shut down thousands of factories and reduced the consumption of electricity in millions of homes since Monday.

Officials emphasized, however, that no date yet was in sight for lifting the government ban on domestic use of electricity for five hours daily in all England, Scotland and Wales and the total embargo on industrial use in 38 English and Welsh counties.

To Work Sunday
More than a quarter of a million miners and railwaymen volunteered to work Sunday to dig and transport coal. Even during the war the majority of miners didn't work Sundays.

The special "coal cabinet" headed by Prime Minister Attlee reported that shipment of coal by sea was nearly back to last fall's level. Rail shipments were up, too; 212 coal trains reached London in the 48-hour period ended at 6 a. m. yesterday. Early in the week few trains got through the snowdrifts.

The restriction on the use of household electricity was reduced to four and a half hours for tomorrow to allow more time for Sunday cooking. The five-hour ban will be in effect again Monday, however.

The authoritative Financial Times said its survey of industries disclosed that production losses of between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000 would result from the first week's embargo on factory electricity and that such losses would grow each week the stoppage continued.

BLUNTLY STATES U.S. IMPATIENCE WITH RUSSIANS

Washington, Feb. 15 (AP)—A blunt assertion by Senator Vandenberg that it would be a "dangerous misconception" for Russia to underestimate this country's rank among world powers gave a clear sign today of mounting congressional impatience with Soviet diplomacy.

The Michigan Republican, chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations committee and president pro tem of the Senate, declared in unvarnished language that Russia does not seem to share "our anxiety to establish mutual fair play and good will."

He said the Soviet Union (1) "completely ignored" four American requests in the last year to discuss settlement of lend-lease accounts and (2) paid no attention to a State department note suggesting negotiations for final disposition of 125 lend-lease U.S. merchant ships.

Symbolic Incidents
Terming these "just a couple of symbolic incidents" in U.S.-Russian relations, Vandenberg last night told guests at a dinner for the Michigan congressional delegation it would be neither unfriendly nor undignified for this country to "insist upon somewhat prompter official mail from Moscow."

"After all," Vandenberg went on, "Washington is not an inconsequential way station on an important RFD. If we allow others to think it is, they may get the habit; and that could be a dangerous misconception for them as well as us."

There was no indication whether the Michigan senator's address had been made known beforehand to the State department.

However, Vandenberg and Senator Connally of Texas, the ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations committee, symbolize the administration's bi-partisan foreign policy as congressional counselors to the secretary of state.
